“ Another victim from 2016 stepping forward to share that I also can live in peace knowing there’s no more harm to myself and the other girls.... Those are only confused because They refuse to listen to the victims over the years to now. Not our problem.

Your name is not Liv, you are Kya Michelle Sonnier, you just commented with the same name under the same account that you commented on previously pretending to be someone else.

You are an ex-girlfriend of his that he had to leave because you could not accept the fact he wanted to better his life with or without you. You made the basic things of being a loyal partner a burden for him. The many sleepless nights I had to talk to him to calm him down because you constantly antagonized him makes this a bitter sweet situation because he passed away a bigger person than what you could be.

You received your Information from Dominique Kelley. As a private investigator, i have recognized you spoke to his previous roommate over being a "victim" because she told me the same when she lied and said he was dating an underage girl. I continued my investigation to find that not only was that a lie, but she completely trashed his apartment and was asking me to not call the cops in her attempt to not have the place fingerprinted. She also stole his items such as his PS5 and PS4 and his clothes were missing and his speakers were ripped off the wall. I have pictures of it all and evidence submitted to HPD Robbery Division. He was the victim of both of yall.

But I speak for the man Denestel was and the man he wanted me to be, please try to be as peaceful that he is. I made a promise to him that I would not escalate the situation and to remain peaceful in hopes you go away. I will continue to practice peace, but there is a limit to how much I will take before I move to the offensive side. Stay blessed.

DO

Me and Kya have never spoken not once and from what Denes told me she is very much a victim and was heavily influenced by him when it came to party drugs. As when I had first met him he also wanted me to participate in drug use. Regardless of how we began, Denes was troubled and I cared for him deeply and I appreciate all that he has done for me. I only think of only the good his has done for me and my sons as he is now gone. As far as his apartment goes, his place was already trashed upon arrival of the police I called after his brother assaulted me. The damages are not on me whatsoever. Again, Dentel took his PlayStation and clothes. Fingerprint for what? I lived there for six months. My fingerprints are everywhere as I took care of him while he was healing from his heartbreak and stroke. You can lie to everyone, and even your oblivious wife. Doesn't make me any difference because I'm not scared because I know what I did and didn't do. I couldn't even walk and that's on record. How can I steal? You are a real clown. Didn't you break into the apartment to access it without any type of warrant? Please be careful because you can very much lose your badge over things that his brother did. His brother stole my things too and my roommate would be alive today had he not let his brother back into his life. I've let it all go and am at peace because I can get everything replaced and he can not get his brother back (: I was never a victim, I don't claim victim but you are definitely a horrible investigator and a pervert. I hope Rayven catches on to your "private investigations."

You mean everything I have picture proof of and sent to the police which is why they dropped your case? Or the fact I took you to the police station and you couldn't give then any details about them "jumping" you. Your medical papers says muscle spasms they did not notice anything associated with being in a fight. Not only that but I have the text message proof with the conversations between me and you, and me and Denestel.

Break into the apartment? I have text messages where he told me to go check on the apartment and I walked in to see it trashed. Then I talked to all of the neighbors and all of them said the same thing that you trashed the apartment.

And pervert? I remained in complete professionalism even when your fatass stole my hamburger when I went to pick up Atlas. I also have the location of his items since yall dumbasses logged onto his profile and played fortnite.

I horrible investigator wouldn't have gotten a voice recording of you admitting that you ripped his speakers and other items off the wall and out of his house and placed them in the neighbors outside closet. Or the recording of you saying that taking care of atlas was not your responsibility meanwhile the dog was in a cage eating his own shit.

If Naomi and Jackson knew the shit I picked up on you and got in my possession currently then they would have never let you in their house with their kids. Say something else to me and I will post ALL of the proof and let Denestel whole friends list know the type of person you are and portraying to be. Try Me...

“ I showed up on my first day of high school with a bald head and shy. No matter how ridiculous I looked, Denestel was by my side. He was there during the bullies, long distance calls when I moved to Virginia, and the first person to sit down with me when I got back. 16 years of friendship of ups and downs. College, marriage, and you were always there. I never thought our last goodbyes would have been the last goodbye. You treated everyone fair and stood for the little man because we grew up the little man our entire friendship. You were my brother through and through. Getting to talk to you one last time and enjoy the moments we shared still brings me joy. Just like our last phone call, I kept you updated on the outside world and I stated I love you and nothing is wavering from that. Good night brother, Your dog Atlas is in good hands.

“ a philosophical ending to the awful life he lived. treat people kindly, do not abuse them or yourself otherwise you fall to a quick demise.... Hope his other victims can rest knowing he can't harm anyone else too.
