“ TRIBUTE TO MY SISTER, MY FRIEND – MABLE

Sis, it's just so strange to have to write a tribute to you or for you! Yes... we called each other "Sis"... For indeed, God had seen it fit to bless me with you as my sister.

From the moment we met over 30 years ago, there was an instant connection. You effortlessly forged a bond, not only with me, but also with Sina, my husband (your movie partner), and our children – Ebum, Lamide, and Korede. I chuckle now as I fondly remember the early days when I struggled to decipher your American accent, only to be rescued by the quick wit of my very young children. Oh, the laughter we shared over those delightful moments remains with me.

Ah!... how we prayed!.... rallying prayers from across the globe, pleading with the heavens...yet, in His infinite wisdom, God called you to Himself. Though our hearts ache with your absence, we find solace in the knowledge that God's love for you surpasses all earthly bounds.

Interestingly, as I was sharing with Ben, although we were saddened by your passing, there was something truly glorious and joyful about your transition – the air was imbued with the jubilant spirit of Eastertide, resonating with the triumphant hymns of the Risen Christ. Not forgetting the spontaneous Ceremonies of Lights in the Courtyard of the Ambassador, the constant sweetness and joyfulness with which everyone spoke about you – devoid of melancholy.... a celestial aura enveloping the earth, as though the very heavens rejoiced at your homecoming; all were indicative of the will of God...He had surely dispatched His Angels to ferry you home to heaven, where you are right now rejoicing with Him.

Oh Sis, how deeply we miss you...your presence, so practical yet profound, your humility, unassuming yet undeniable, your zest for life, an eternal flame that continues to burn within our hearts. The abiding lesson I am taking from your life Mable, is that Love knows no boundaries and that True Love demands forgiveness. In your forgiveness, you taught us the invaluable lesson of grace - the liberation that comes from letting go of grievances.

Sis, memories of all the cherished moments we shared during your visits and stays in our home in Lagos, and we, in your lovely home in Houston are forever etched in my heart – the lively banter, the heartfelt conversations, the infectious laughter, the movie marathons, the line dance lessons and those recipes! These moments are treasures that time cannot erase.

As you journey onward Sis, know that your beloved husband, Ben - my immediate younger brother, and Nkechi Chelsey, your baby - our Goddaughter, are enveloped in our love and care. They will never walk alone for we will stand by them, and above all, God's unwavering Presence will guide and comfort them through every step on life's journey.

I am comforted Mable, that you are at peace – everlasting peace in heaven. Heaven's surely gained an angel; and we too, an intercessor on high!

Eternal life grant unto Mable O Lord, and let Light Perpetual shine upon her, Amen!

Rest on Sis, till we meet again.

*Your Sis,
Annette Ofunne Akinsete (nee Izegbu)*

“ Mabel, an angel sent from heaven, I met Mabel in early '80s through my late husband Daniel Thompson, Mabel and the Dumas family took us as family my son was only 2 years old at the time when I married my late husband Daniel Thompson ,Mabel's late mother we called her maw maw they fell in love with him and wanted to take him home with them the very same day, I said maybe later I'll bring him over to see you guys from then on every weekend I had to drive across the Huey p long bridge to bring them Mal and if I didn't bring him they would be calling for him, when Mabel moved to Texas we were still going to see her doing the summer I remember us taking a trip to Hot spring Arkansas they would go to Hot springs Arkansas every summer but one summer they decided after I had back surgery it would be a good idea for me to go, so I flew to Texas to be with them we had a good ride in the van laughing and talking oh I so enjoyed that it was like I was a brand new person when I got back home, no matter how long we were apart we always managed to stay together by someone in the family when hurricane Katrina hit we moved to Texas we got back in touch with Mabel I traveled over to the galleria area to visit Mabel on occasion and Ben was there Ben forgot who I was and I had to tell him make him remember that I knew them when Mabel had this little apartment and we would come to visit he was much younger than they were much younger than, he remembered, Mabel I will miss you this was the hardest writing that I had to do because I get up in the night looking at your picture looking at your smile right now I'm in tears trying to get through this, you were so close to me when you came around me you could tell something was not right you gave me advice told me what to do to take care of myself I'm going to miss that I'm going to miss you how do we carry on when the people that we love leave us, you're in heaven with your mother and Daniel please tell them hello for us we miss them but I know that there are angels watching over us. to Ben and Chelsea and the Dumas family weeping may endure for a night but joy cometh in the morning let us all weep but know that Mabel was a very laughing and loving person and we will carry on her legacy.💔😭

“ To know Mable is to know the true definition of love, light, joy, and kindness! Mable has been apart of my life since I was 3 years old. One of my fondest memories of Tee Mable was the time I recorded cartoons over her Soap Operas. She was so angry with me but through her anger her love was felt. On our most recent visit with her in ICU we shared a joyous laugh about that memory. My wife and I had the pleasure of attending one of her Saints watch parties where she treated us in true Mable fashion, with nothing but love and generosity. Her light and infectious smile will be truly missed by my wife and I. Thank you for the honor of requesting to see me before you transitioned from this plane of life. Thank you for the loving and lasting words you spoke to me. You will forever be near and dear to our heart. To Chelsey and Uncle Ben, the both of you have our deepest sympathy. You're in our prayers.

“ Splendour In The Grass

WILLIAM WORDSWORTH

What though the radiance which was once so bright

Be now for ever taken from my sight, Though nothing can bring back the hour Of splendour in the grass, of glory in the flower, We will grieve not, rather find Strength in what remains behind;

In the primal sympathy

Which having been must ever be;

In the soothing thoughts that spring

Out of human suffering,

In the faith that looks through death, In years that bring the philosophic mind.

“ TRIBUTE TO MABLE

It is with a very sad heart that we pay tribute to Mable. Mable was married to my younger brother, Ben. She was therefore, formally my sister-in-law. In my family, she was regarded and treated as a full sister. We did not see any difference between her and my blood sisters. She quickly became a full-fledged member of the IZEGBU family. She visited Nigeria several times and travelled widely within the country. She loved Nigeria. In fact her last visit was only 4 months ago for Christmas. Mable was endearing in so many ways. She loved nature. She was down to earth, with no airs and graces. She was a very kind and gentle lady. She cared for people no matter who they were. I got to know her even better when Ben and I shared a building together in Nigeria, and she came to stay with Ben. We all had a nice time together with her telling us so many stories about her early childhood. She was very fond and close to our late parents. I remember her teasing my mum on several occasions with her Louisiana southern accent and my mum asking me what she said, and we all laughed together when my late mum finally understood what she said

It's been very painful for us all, but especially for Ben and Nkechi when she was diagnosed with her condition. I have to say in her typical manner that she fought a brave fight till the end. Unfortunately, it was the aggressive kind, and it took hold very quickly. We will all miss her so terribly. We pray for Ben and Nkechi for God's blessings to be able to cope with her loss. Mable visited my wife and I at our home several times and left us with great memories, which we will cherish forever. May the almighty look after her soul in heaven and bless those she has left behind. Amen!

“ Sweet Aunty Mable, it's still hard to believe that you are no longer with us in body, but your spirit of generosity, positivity and kindness will always remain with us. I cherish the memories of all the good times we shared in Lagos; your contagious energy, infectious laugh and relentless ability to see the bright side whatever the circumstance may be. Thank you for sharing a bit of who you were with us all. Miss you very much!

“ I remember how Mable my sister in law with her sweet gentle disposition calls and refers to me as Sis each time we spoke. She was ever always so calm and up for a laugh each time in any conversation. Mable has eyes for good and nice things without making a force about in her usual quiet demeanour. I particularly remember one of her visits to the United Kingdom and we all went out to south east London from Kent where my daughter Funmi and I lived at the time, as soon as we approached the area she was quick to observe the area and in her American accent made a comment that us all into a fit of laughter and my daughter and I never forgot that ever since then. Each time we remember her we usually talk about her still quiet demeanour. May her sweet gentle Soul rest in perfect peace in Jesus name Amen 🙏
