Our posse consisted of Clarence Tisdale, Ronald Sanford, Michael Owens, Evelyn Fench, Betty Braiden, Mattye Graves and a few others. We walked from Washington Jr High School down to 9th-11th Streets in North Nashville. Robert was smart, loving, humorous, and peaceful. R.I.P. Robert “ I'm gonna miss Rob. After hearing how much he loved food, I feel honored to have been able to cook BBQ for him several times over the years, including the week before he moved on.

Rob would always leave you shaking your head or rolling in laughter with some of the things he would say.

I'm glad I took my son with me when I delivered that last food order to Rob. He even got my son with his trademark line (if you know you know) and was doubled over in laughter afterwards.

Rest easy man....we gonna miss you

Rob and I came to Houston during the late 1970s. We both knew the same people and always frequent the same events. He was my friend. He always had a smile and would give you the shirt off his back. I was deeply saddened to hear that he had transitioned and he will be missed by all who loved him. Rest in Peace my brother
